Summer 2017

June 2017

The long, hot days of summer are here. I hope you are having a good semester, but also get to take a break over the summer!

Congratulations to the six non-traditional students who graduated in April from A.S. Respiratory Care, A.S. Legal Assisting and A.S. Nursing Bridge LPN to RN programs. What a great accomplishment!

Please take a few minutes to look through this newsletter. In it you will find some helpful information on tutoring services available, exam study tips, things to do on campus, and other resources offered at SF College.

All the best as you work toward your educational and career goals.

Regards,

How to Prepare for a College Exam

For more info, visit: <https://www.scholarships.com/resources/study-skills/study-smart/how-to-prepare-for-a-college-exam/>

Whether you are an A type student (the punctual kind who writes everything down in a little black planner, never misses an exam) or a B type student (the antithesis of A who rarely goes to class and doesn't carry a little black planner) these study tips can help you prepare for any college exam by beginning on the first day of class.

◇ Exam preparation begins on the first day of class

On most college level exams everything mentioned in class is fair game. Every class that you attend, assignment you complete, and contribution that you make in lecture will help prepare you for any questions that may appear on an exam in the future. The more involved you are in lectures the less information you will have to cram the day before the exam.

◇ Hold on to your syllabus

A syllabus will help you organize the information as you take it in and give you an idea about what topics will be emphasized on the exam. When it comes to preparing for the test, your syllabus will create a study guide for you. As the class progresses, add a few notes to your syllabus. Circle books, topics, and themes which are likely to appear on an exam.

◇ Participate in class

Not only does participation help you get closely acquainted with course material, but it also shows the professor that you are interested in his class. In college, it can seem as though professors don't even notice when you show up for class. Don't let them fool you, they notice. By participating in class you can ensure that your involvement and commitment to the course is recognized.

◇ Keep copies of quizzes, essay questions, papers etc.

Most papers handed out during class come in handy when preparing for an exam. Storing such handouts in a folder is another step that will help you develop an efficient study routine. Additionally, quizzes typically test your knowledge of a topic that the professor really thinks you need to know. Whatever the topic, if it's significant enough to appear on a quiz alone, it will most certainly appear on your exam.
